

Organic hemp products

– grown and crafted in Sweden

Hemp is a versatile plant with numerous uses, and it thrives in organic farming on Swedish soils.

Mossagården in Skåne is nestled among majestic oaks, lush grazing fields, beautiful wetlands, and thriving vegetable fields. The farm has been growing organically since 1985 and started Sweden's first subscription service of fresh, local produce in 1998. In 2008 the farm began growing hemp.

Today, the service continues and customers throughout Skåne enjoy produce delivered to their homes and local pick-up points every week. Mossagården is currently working on adding new goodies to its range of hemp-products which today includes oil, seeds, flour, cheese and ice-cream.

Discover the world of Mossagården

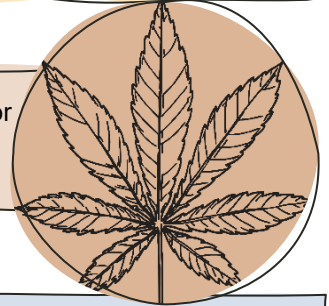

– your source of inspiration for slow living

The hempy wildlife Inspired by both wild and cultivated nature, where dining experiences can be enjoyed in the hemp café within the hemp barn, or outdoors in the heart of nature. At Mossagården, you'll find organic fields, towering hemp plants, wetlands, ancient forests, and more. Immersing yourself in nature here is an invitation to embrace wellness.

Ecoart and curiosity Nature, culture, and farming-themed tasting walks, lectures, and events like the Mossagårdsfestival will be held, with the activities centered around a holistic exchange of knowledge and culture in the unique setting of Mossagården.

Hemp food for life We aim to offer healthy, plant-based hemp foods for future generations, all while being organic and locally produced. Hemp is a powerful source of valuable protein.

Farming for the future Mossagården is an organic farm dedicated to inspiring the transition towards healthier soils with enhanced carbon sequestration. We focus on key elements such as fermented nutrients, biochar, clover, biodiversity, and soil organic matter to promote sustainable farming practices.

Organic f@rmshop Mossagården's new farm shop will open in the hemp barn, and we're excited to keep it open year-round. Our online store will continue to offer organic vegetables and fruits, bringing fresh, local produce to everyone!
